

The Tiziano Story

In existence since before the age of the Roman civilization, and officially defined since 1716 as the geographical area nestled between Florence and Siena, Italy's Chianti Classico region is filled with countless award-winning wineries. For centuries they have produced the renowned Sangiovese-based red wine, and Tiziano is proud to be a part of that tradition.

Lovers of fine Italian wines have come to know and trust Tiziano over the years for producing red wines of the highest quality, and our wines have received numerous acclaims by the most respected wine writers and publications.

It is with this same dedication to over-delivering on quality that we are proud to announce the launch of the first white wine that we consider good enough to earn the Tiziano trademark.

